st the Palace on the 5th; of taking his de- parture with them, and thus of resuming the neutral attitude which he should never have	Per	ak	T 83 abandoned. What makes his conduct stranger is that the possibility of danger to his own Legation does not seem to have suggested itself to	Per	ang ak sh	St Bre
him. In fact, he remained in complete and hap- py unconsciousness of the coup d'état that was in progress almost under his eyes. The only	. 1.	ngk mi nes	tai

Korea is independent, and that even in a com-does not seem to have been yet fully appreciated.

It was a very far-seeing policy which prompted to impose upon Korea conditions so easy that she, on the one hand, was glad to close with them speedily, while the Chinese Commissioner, on the other, could find no pretext to interfere.
